UPHOLDS LAW IN TEST CASE

Illinois Supreme Court Decides Local Option Law is Constitutional

MUST RETURN LICENSE FEES

Certain Elections Under Measure May be Nullified, Say the Judges, But Legis- lation Itself Can't be Assailed

The Supreme court, Wednesday of last week decided the John McBride appeal case, holding that the local option law which was passed by the legislature last year is constitutional in every respect.

The court was unanimous in its decision. Every point on which the law was attacked was gone into by the court. Every section of the law was pronounced valid by the court.

The Supreme court holds that the law's title is not defective; that the law does not confiscate property, because the saloon-keeper invests in furniture and fixtures knowing that he is liable to have his license revoked at any time under the old law. It holds also that the new law does not create any new offenses.

The court also decides that the United States stamp is prima facie evidence that a man is engaged in the sale of liquor; that in case of elections without notice, for which the law provides, such elections, if held, would be invalid; but that this does not invalidate the act itself.

The legislature may create districts like a county or township, and if the voters in the district decide that intoxicating liquors shall not be sold in the district, then a village or city in this district created can not permit the sale of liquor, says the decision. The sale of liquor for medicinal purposes by druggists is never regarded as the saloon business, adds the court.

The Supreme court holds that when a man gets a saloon license and can not use it, the municipality lessing the license is morally bound, through not before the passage of the law, legally bound, to pay it back to him.

One of the principles of the law was that the law permit the legislature to delegate to the courts the power to adopt the law.

CARFARE

The decision of the Supreme court of this state has held that to be legal. The decision fell hard upon the representatives of the United Societies, who are here demanding that state democracy favor the repeal of the law. The Antioch league jubilantly declares that the decision means country option at the next legislative session.

The court decided that a township may control the liquor business in all its borders.

The decision is based on the case of People vs. McBride, a saloonkeeper of Randolph county, who openly ran his saloon in violation of the law to test the statute, and was fined by a justice. The case was appealed to the Supreme court, where the law was attacked by lawyers representing the brewers and distillers and supported by attorneys for the Anti-saloon league.

The right to create anti-saloon territory is unquestioned, says the court, and can not be qualified or restricted in any sense. The right of a municipal city to vote itself "wet" after its township has voted "dry" was not brought into the case. The rights of drug stores under this law and the possession of an excise stamp being considered prima facie evidence of sale are two other important questions not raised. The main question was whether the legislature has the right to create anti-saloon territory.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TIES UP
WAUKEGAN

Following the killing of two men and the injury of three others by the bursting of a flywheel in the plant of the Waukegan Electric company, the town was crippled Thursday. Business was at a standstill, and several factories and other places closed down because of the absence of electric power.

Hundreds of men and women found themselves without employment when they reported for work. The electric light service had been ruined.

The accident was one of the most serious that has occurred in the north shore city. Huge parts of the big flywheel weighing several tons crashed through the brick walls of the powerhouse, suited nearly two blocks at terrific speed, spreading death and injury on the way.

The dead are, J. H. Jensen, manager telephone exchange at Waukegan, hit by a piece of the wheel, died at the hospital. Joseph Paddock, private policeman, standing a block from the plant, struck by a large part of flywheel, killed instantly.

FORMER LAKE COUNTY WOMAN KILLED

The wife of J. F. Fisher, formerly agent at Prairie View and Lake Villa was instantly killed at Waupaca, Wis., last Friday. She was visiting her mother and while out driving their horse became frightened at a street car and both were thrown to the street. Mrs. Fisher was thrown in front of the approaching car which crushed her before it could be stopped. Mr. Fisher is at present located at Ashland, Wis. and has many friends in Lake County.

Orrin C. Stonebraker, one of the earliest pioneer settlers of Kenosha county and a resident of the town of Bristol for nearly sixty years, died at the Stonebraker home, located in that town on Tuesday as a result of a natural breaking down due to advanced age. The deceased was 78 years of age. He was prominent in the affairs of the town of Bristol and the county for more than forty years. Mr. Stonebraker was born in Otego county, N. Y., Oct. 14, 1829. He came west in 1851 and had since resided in Bristol. During his long residence in the town he had taken an active interest in its affairs and had held many town offices, serving as town treasurer and school director for many years. ## NATAL DAY OF GREAT ORDER

Sunday Last the Anniversary of the Founding of Odd Fellowship in America

EIGHTY-NINE YEARS OF AGE

Noble Fraternal Society Order Whose Branches Now Extend Over Entire World

Sunday was the eighty-ninth anniversary of the beginning of Odd Fellowship in America, but the Antioch lodge did not have any special observation of the occasion. In eleven years less than a century the American fraternal order has grown to hundreds of thousands of members. It has grand lodges in every state and territory of the union and has flowed over the boundaries to the countries of the old world and to the islands of the Pacific ocean. It has founded homes for the indigent members of the order and for the widows and orphans of deceased members. It has disbursed immense sums in charity and is one of the most fraternal orders of the country. In age it stands next to the Masonic order and in good works it is at least a close second.

The first Odd Fellows lodge in America was organized April 20, 1819, in the city of Baltimore, by Thomas Wilkey and four other Englishmen who had just come to America from their native country, when they were members of what was called the Manchester Unity, an organization in which the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was founded. It was intended at first as merely a social organization of local character, but the idea appealed to others, and it was not long before the lodge had largely increased in membership and other lodges were founded.

It was not long before the new order spread to neighboring states and in a comparatively short time it had grown to such an extent that a grand lodge and a supreme lodge were established to direct the order and weld it into an instrument of great good to humanity. Thomas Wilkey, founder of the order, was made the recognized from the first as the head of the sovereign supreme lodge and held that exalted position for many years.

The lodge proper confers five degrees upon members. A higher branch of the order is an encampment to which all members of subordinate lodges who have obtained the fifth or scarlet degree are eligible. The encampment has three degrees and has in each jurisdiction a grand encampment, corresponding to the grand lodge.

There is also a uniformed branch known as the Patriarchs Militant, whose diversions are styled cantons, and to which all encampment members of the highest, or royal purple, degree are eligible.

The Odd Fellows also has a degree of Rebekah to which widows, sisters and daughters of Odd Fellows are eligible and also all Odd Fellows themselves. This was the first fraternal order in America to extend the benefits of membership to women and the degree of Rebekah is surprisingly strong, having also its higher lodges and legislating for itself within certain lines.

EXPRESS CLERK OVERCOME BY GAS

Olto Yahn, employed with the American Express Company, was Friday night overcome by illuminating gas, because of an alleged leak in the pipes in the building on North Genesee street, Waukegan, part of which the express company occupies.

His condition was discovered Saturday morning when Expressman Thomas Webb opened the back door of the office and found Yahn overcome.

He summoned Dr. Daniels and Yahn was soon brought out of a state of coma. He is now recovered but was obliged to take a walk this afternoon to get fresh air.

MANIAC COMMITTS SUICIDE

Hans Anderson of Winthrop Harbor Cuts Throat With Razor

WAS DEED OF A MANIAC

Anderson Had Twice Been Committed to and Discharged From Asylums

With an open razor in his hand Wednesday morning Hans Anderson of Winthrop street, Winthrop Harbor, Ill., drove his wife and children into the woods and then returning into his house cut his throat from ear to ear.

His body weltering in its own blood was found in the farm house by neighbors to whom the wife and children appealed for aid and at three Wednesday afternoon Deputy Coroner Conrad held the inquest.

The fortunate thing about it is that Anderson did not attempt to kill his family, as his deed was that of a maniac.

Forty-eight years old, he resided on the state line on one of the Schneider places until two or three years ago when he went to Kenosha.

Just after he had built a house there he went insane and was twice committed to and discharged from asylums, finally returning to Winthrop Harbor, where he has made his home for three weeks.

He committed suicide at 10 Wednesday morning. There are surviving him the widow and three children.

GRAHAM DEFATS YOUNG

John R. Graham of Long Lake, Lake county, defeated Jesse Young in a special match race of 200 targets at the Chicago Gun club grounds Sunday, both men making unusually good scores in a strong wind and a driving rain. Graham broke 195 out of a possible 200, and Young shattered 185.

Three other men joined the race, in order to complete a full squad of five, but they did not figure as regular contestants. Of these Le Barkley, the professional, broke 189, W. H. Whitcomb broke 182 and A. A. Weinberg smashed 177.

Graham's showing was not only remarkable on account of the weather conditions, but also for the time he made. In the first 100 targets he broke 98 and on the second round he broke 97. Although it was raining so heavily at one stage that the targets were scarcely visible, he made a straight run of 77, breaking his first three lots of 25 in clean fashion. He lost the third target following on account of the wind.

We would not wish to tarnish a man of character or ruin his fortune by dishonoring him in the world; to stain the principles of a woman's conduct by entering into the essential points of it; that would be too infamous and mean; but upon a thousand faults which lead our judgment to believe them capable of all the rest; to inspire the mind of those who listen to us with a thousand suspicions which point out what we dare not say; to make satirical remarks which discover a mystery, where no person before had perceived the least intention of concealment; by poisonous interpretations, to give an air of ridicule to matters which had hitherto escaped observation; to let everything, on certain points, be clearly understood, while protesting that they are incapable themselves of cunning or deceit, is what the world makes little account of.—Jean Baptiste Massillon.

POLICEMAN'S SON RUN OVER

Raymond Trieger Fatally Injured by a Brewery Wagon

Raymond Trieger, three years old, son of Mounted Policeman Gustave Trieger, of Chicago, was run over by a Birk Bros. brewery wagon Saturday and fatally injured in North Lincoln street between Ainslie and Lawrence avenues.

The accident occurred at about six o'clock and the little fellow was at once hurried to a hospital where he passed away about nine o'clock. The child was playing close to the edge of the sidewalk, just how the accident happened we are unable to learn.

The driver, Martin Ludwig, was arrested later and held pending the result of the boy's injuries.

The remains were brought to Antioch on the 10:35 train Tuesday morning and a short funeral service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Trieger at Grass Lake, a minister from Chicago officiating.

The remains were interred in the Grass Lake cemetery.

WM. YOUNG SUCCUMBS TO PNEUMONIA

Word was received here on Friday morning of last week, of the death of Wm. Young, which occurred at the Jane McAllister hospital on Thursday evening at about 6:30 o'clock.

His death was due to a severe attack of pneumonia, from which he had been suffering for about two weeks. From the first it was evident that his case was a very serious one and it was deemed advisable to convey him to Waukegan where he was placed in the hospital.

The latter part of the past week, however he appeared to be much improved but toward evening Thursday he suddenly turned for the worse and even before the change could be realized, with a sigh he sank back dead, expiring in the presence of the hospital superintendent and two nurses.

Mr. Young was born September 11, 1854 at Rochester, New York. In the year of 1885 he came with his parents to Illinois, and settled near Russell. On the third day of April 1888 he moved onto his farm east of town and that place was his home the remainder of his life.

The funeral was held at the Millburn church on Sunday, many relatives and friends from here attending. The remains were laid at rest beside his father and mother in the Millburn cemetery.

OBITUARY

Sarah Lovina Garwood was born in Cumberland county, Vermont, in the year 1840 and died April 21st, 1908, aged 67 years. When a small child she with her parents moved to Hebron, Washington county, New York. In the year 1855 they again moved, coming to Lake county, Illinois, where she has since resided.

At the age of 22 she united with the Congregational church at Benham. Corners of which church she was always a member.

In 1868 she was united in marriage to Jarius Garwood of Channah, Illinois, who passed away June 16, 1899.

To them two children were born, Florence and Luella.

For the past ten years she had been in failing health and death came as a relief. Besides the two daughters left to mourn her death, she leaves two brothers, Frank Clark of McBride, Mich., and James Clark of Gurnee, besides one sister, Mrs. James Gullidge, of Antioch.

Hoping against hope, the family resorted to all kinds of means, to induce him to tell, he was encouraged in every possible manner, but was unable to impart the words which, according to appearances, he was trying to give to his family.

He was unable to write them either, not because he could not write, but because he seemed unable to concentrate his mind long enough on what he was trying to do.

Like when he tried to talk, he would write a word and it looked as if he were going to get it in black and white, but after getting a couple of words down blankness would again cross his face and he would sink back helpless and his mind gone for a time.

Paralysis is said to be the cause of the man's trouble, although heart failure began troubling him about a year ago. His last sickness lasted about a month and during that time his death was expected at any time.

Williams was 55 years, and had been employed as foreman of erecting air gates on the North western between Chicago and Milwaukee.

Being a saving man, he had acquired considerable money during his life time, but the unfortunate part of it was that he never told his wife anything about what he did with it. He invested it as fast as he acquired it, and when he did not find a ready investment, he is believed to have hidden it somewhere, where his wife does not know. One large investment which he made was in a coffee plantation, an investment which had been bringing him in a considerable revenue, but his wife knows nothing of it except that it pays well.

DEATH REAPS RICHES

Waukegan Man Dies Trying to Tell Wife Where Savings Had Been Hidden

SAYS ONE WORD THEN FAILS

Most Interesting Condition Develops in Death of Man Who Kept Private Affairs Away From Family

Although he had a considerable amount of money hidden away in boxes, etc., although he held considerable stock in a coffee plantation, although he tried as hard as possible to tell his relatives about his financial investments when the death call was imminent, P. S. Williams of 1104 W. Washington street, Waukegan, died Wednesday morning without having been able to reveal to his wife and three children where his money and stocks are and therefore they are perhaps left almost penniless.

For days Williams had been trying to tell his family where his money and investments were, but because of his condition he was unable to impart the information to them.

A clairvoyant was called to the house from Winnetka and everything possible was done to get the man's mind into such a state that he could tell where the effects are.

But it was of no avail—he died without being able to tell what he so hard tried to tell.

It was the most remarkable case of the kind that has ever occurred in Waukegan, perhaps there never before has been a case of the kind in this section.

Having kept his own counsel for years during his business transactions, Williams paid the penalty of being called away without being able to give his family that which he had worked all his life to acquire—a comfortable sum of money. He always kept things to himself and as the result, when he got into a condition where it was seen the end was not far off, his relatives began to wonder how they would get knowledge of his affairs in case he should die.

That Williams realized it himself is shown by the determined and even pitiful effort which he made to tell his wife where he had hidden his money and in what plantation company he had invested in stocks.

He would say a word now and then and it caused his relatives to eagerly watch him for further information, but after getting one or two words out of his mouth, his mind seemed unable to carry on the thoughts he was trying to give out and thus things went on for days.

Day and night his relatives watched him as they saw his life ebbing away, it being realized that unless he gave the information soon, he must die and the family would be ignorant of where his money and stocks were.

Hoping against hope, the family resorted to all kinds of means, to induce him to tell, he was encouraged in every possible manner, but was unable to impart the words which, according to appearances, he was trying to give to his family.

He was unable to write them either, not because he could not write, but because he seemed unable to concentrate his mind long enough on what he was trying to do.

Like when he tried to talk, he would write a word and it looked as if he were going to get it in black and white, but after getting a couple of words down blankness would again cross his face and he would sink back helpless and his mind gone for a time.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Paoli, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves. Enid Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant, the four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues and as the quarter are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes gets part of the mysterious note and receives letters which inform him that he is marked by the vendetta. He employs an American detective and plans to beat the vendetta at their own game. For the purpose of securing the safety of the women Barnes arranges to have Lady Charlotte leave a second wife at Nice to which the party is to be taken in a yacht. Barnes and Enid make arrangements for their escape. The net tightens about Barnes. He receives a note from La Belle Blackwood, the American adventuresome. Barnes, the American detective, has been murdered by the Corsicans. He learns that the man supposed to be the reason who followed the party on their way to the boat was Saliceti, a nephew of the count and that Count Corrello had been in Nice for some time prior to the party's arrival. The count warns Barnes not to marry Enid unless he would have her also involved in the murder. Barnes and Enid are married. Soon after their wedding Barnes' bride disappears. Barnes discovers she has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica. The groom secures a fishing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his bride's captors when he hears a scream from the villa and rushes back to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is also missing. Barnes is compelled to depart for Corsica without delay, and the kidnapping search for Marina to her husband while he goes to hunt for Enid. Just before Barnes' boat leaves on the shore Marina is discovered hiding in a corner of the vessel. She explains her action by saying she has come to her senses and wishes to return to her husband. When Barnes and Marina arrive in Corsica he is given a note written by Enid informing him that the kidnapping is for the purpose of entrapping Barnes, so the vendetta may kill him. Barnes and Marina take unusual precautions in their search for Enid. They come in sight of her and her captors in the Corsican mountain wilds just as night approaches. In seeking shelter from a storm the couple enter a hermitage and there to their amazement they discover Tomasso, the foster father of Marina, who was supposed to have been killed by De Belloc's soldiers, and for whose death Barnes had been vendettized. Tomasso learns that Marina's husband did not kill her brother.

Here, as they warm themselves before the fire, Tomasso remarks: "I have little to offer you, dear mistress, but some dried sheep's flesh."

"Plish! hunger is nothing. You are alive, dear old Tomasso," repeats the girl as he again mumbles her hand. Still the young lady's eyes seem happier when Barnes, opening his havsack, throws out cans of preserved meats, potted chicken and tinned biscuits; also tea and coffee and tin cups and plates. These being followed by a box of cigars, the American emits a snort of joy, and remarks: "Little Lehot is a genius."

Immediately all together they go to work to make a mountain supper. Soon after, as they eat, Barnes remarks: "This is a mighty curious coincidence. Do you know, old Tomasso, that Saliceti, the young politician here, the one who is to marry your daughter, Etheria, has sworn a vendetta against me for putting the troops on your track and getting you shot to death?"

"A vendetta against you? Well, it was his duty, seeing he is to marry your daughter, had your soldiers killed me, returns the old Corsican, in his simple way."

A moment after, however, he chuckles to himself: "Per Dio, that was what Rochini and Romano wanted me to do today—I was to kill you."

"Those awful monsters," shudders Marina.

"What makes you think that, Mondaldi?" asks Barnes, surprise upon his face.

"Well, this Rochini, and his mate, have been run out of Retondo, the farmers there having got tired of their sheep disappearing too rapidly, and have come over to this mountain. Today these two approached me some four hours ago and said: 'Brother, handit out of a job, join us. A messenger has been sent ahead and we are going down to help Saliceti make votes for himself by killing the American down in the vale toward Guagno.'"

"Hum! then you did not accept," remarks Barnes, lighting his cigar.

"I am not quite bandit enough to shoot a man I have never heard of before," answers old Mondaldi proudly, "so I said: 'No.' 'Ah, but he will have gold with him,' cried Rochini. 'Per diavolo! always have gold,' said Romano, and the two went on their way. They are down the valley now."

"That is not all of it," says Barnes earnestly. "Your loved mistress—her life is in danger, too."

"Not by those or any other men while I, Tomasso, am alive," answers the old man savagely.

"No, but by Ciprino Danella, Musso's brother, and the scar-eyed young man, Musso's nephew."

"Oh, yes; I know them both. They threaten her?" The old Corsican gazes with love and reverence upon the being he adores. "Threaten her—these people?" he exclaims vindictively.

"Yes, because your stiletto killed Musso, they say she plotted with you for his murder, so as to save her husband," remarks Barnes, puffing his cigar.

"What, when she shrieked to me not to strike through the curtain. Ah, but I have something to say to Musso's relatives. And my friend, Saliceti, whom I once voted for, who is to marry my Etheria—if he is with them, I will have a word with Saliceti, and should he not prove pliable Etheria must get another for husband. Girls should not marry corpses, and Saliceti will be dead." As if the matter is ended, old Mondaldi fills a battered cherrywood pipe with the strong, bitter, native tobacco of the island, lights it and goes to puffing contentedly.

"Neither of the Danellas is in Corsica," remarks Barnes. "The danger will come to your mistress when she returns to her husband on the French mainland. But Saliceti has abducted my wife and brought her here—so that I, following him, shall come to my death in Bocognano."

"Pah, nothing will come to your wife to-night," says old Mondaldi. "Girls picking wild strawberries were talking that the day after to-morrow the people vote. They have a meeting this evening in Bocognano. I listened from behind a rock and heard them."

But Barnes is not so easy about his captured bride; he steps out of the cabin and finds the wind has died away, the mist has cleared with the rapidly usual to mountain storms.

He steps in and says anxiously to Marina: "The evening is very clear."

"Behind him, Tomasso, following, carrying the American's rifle, is saying: 'Oh, you will be worshiped in this commune for this. So many poor men have been butchered, so many poor women have been carried away to the mountains by these dead devils.'"

But the reports have drawn others to the spot. As Barnes steps over the dead man lying in the entrance of the cabin, he suddenly says: "By heaven, here are more of them!" puts Marina down and would draw his revolver were he not seized by three athletic young fellows who rise silently from the shadows about them.

A clear, commanding voice remarks: "No more of Rochini and his fellows. You have saved us the trouble of their killing. We are the Bellocos. Your pistols, stranger, have relieved us of the execution of these ruffians we were pursuing, who have brought discredit on the honored name of bandit!"

And Tomasso is crying, "Antonio Bonelli," to a man of noble bearing, who, carbine in hand, comes into the cabin followed by eight stalwart young men, all armed as he is.

But the young men fear the supernatural and stand back, their eyes gleaming, and one shudders: "Tis the ghost of old Mondaldi, killed by De Belloc's troops two weeks ago." For a moment they would retreat, but their leader laughs at them: "Tis flesh and blood that is kissing my hand."

And old Tomasso says: "You know how well the troops shoot. Do you think they'd hit a man at 200 yards hiding behind a rock in the gloom of the morning?"

But, the flashing-eyed man orders: "Stand back, while I question this stranger who has done Bocognano a service to-night."

Marina has risen, murmuring: "Antonio Bonelli!"

"Gran Dio! Mademoiselle Paoli," says the man, and gallantly sinks upon his knee and kisses devotedly the fair hand the girl extends to him. After a moment he continues most emphatically: "It was with sorrow that Corsica heard that you had forgotten the oath of the vendetta in the arms of the English officer who killed your brother."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

CHANGE IN SCHOOL METHODS.

Consolidated Temple of Learning is Now the Order.

"The old country schoolhouse of not so long ago will soon be a relic of the past," said James Tighe of Altoona, Pa., according to the Washington Post. "Although one traveling through the country sees many of these old fashioned structures, he does not realize that they are rapidly being deserted and that a consolidated schoolhouse will be met with farther up the road. These new buildings are graded, and many have several high school courses, so that one teacher now teaches only one class, whereas in the old days the pedagogue taught everything from the alphabet to Latin. Of course, the consolidated schoolhouse is not so convenient to all the children, as they have to go a greater distance, but all of them ride to school nowadays. The consolidated school is much cheaper to the community, and what the farmer saves in taxes he puts in sleighs and wagons, so that his children may ride. Pupils can also remain at their home school much longer than they formerly could, and this also is a great saving. We may expect great results from this change, for the farmers with their poor schools have turned out some wonderful men, and they should do even better under the new conditions."

Quinine in Sunflower.

An eminent Spanish scientist has made the recent discovery that the sunflower yields a splendid febrifuge that can be used as a substitute for quinine. More than ten years ago Moncorvo reported to the Therapeutic Society of Paris with relation to the same subject. Accordingly the sunflower should not only be its growing exert great fever-dispelling effect, but also yield a product which is used advantageously in all fevers.

Brutally they draw near to her. As the girl draws back from the contaminating clasp of the monsters, Tomasso, with a savage cry, and uplifted stiletto, stands between.

In a second the old man will be dead under their knives and the brave girl their prey. Marina's undaunted eyes, turning in appeal to the American, see with astonishment that he makes no move to aid her, but is absently squirming toward the cabin door. Suddenly she utters a gasp of despair and a sigh of contempt; this great pistol shot is running timidly away, flying out of the cabin, though as he passes the pile of boughs he seizes the belt holding his two revolvers.

"He has the gold! After him!" cries Rochini.

"We'll knife him in a minute!" yells Romano, and the two, cocking their guns, fly after the dastard American.

But as they reach the door, the moment their athletic forms are outlined by the blaze of the fire, two quick, sharp pistol reports come from the outside, and Rochini and Romano, without even a cry, fall to the earth, inert and dead.

The smoke of Barnes' revolvers issues from them as he quietly re-enters and says apologetically: "I knew I wouldn't have time to grab my guns and shoot before they'd knife me, so I imitated the trick of Jerry, the Denver barkeeper, and ran away till I could get my weapons ready."

A moment later he says: "Come!" and taking Marina carefully in his arms, whispers: "Turn your face from them," and steps over the dead man lying in the entrance of the cabin.

Behind him, Tomasso, following, carrying the American's rifle, is saying: "Oh, you will be worshiped in this commune for this. So many poor men have been butchered, so many poor women have been carried away to the mountains by these dead devils."

But the reports have drawn others to the spot. As Barnes steps over the dead man lying in the entrance of the cabin, he suddenly says: "By heaven, here are more of them!" puts Marina down and would draw his revolver were he not seized by three athletic young fellows who rise silently from the shadows about them.

Clearly I Am Refreshed, Another Cup of Tea and I Will Go with You.

You know my anguish—do you think you have strength to venture down the heights, assisted by Tomasso and me, and enter your own village?"

"Certainly, I am refreshed. Another cup of tea and I will go with you," cries the girl so eagerly that Barnes puts grateful eyes upon her, for he knows it is her spirit more than her strength that produces her assent to further journey.

They are making hurried preparations to leave the cabin. Barnes is bending over the fire, brewing Marina's tea—their guns, and even the American's revolvers are lying in their belt on the pile of boughs near the entrance. Tomasso is saying: "Will I not astonish the men who swore a vendetta against you for my death? I who am alive and—and—" when suddenly Tomasso stops. There is a rattle in his throat that causes Barnes to look hurriedly up. Marina has retreated to the corner of the cabin and Mondaldi's eyes are full of horror.

Just across the fire from him stand two dark mountaineers. Rough, undressed sheepskins cover their brawny shoulders; long guns are in their hands and stilettoes in their belts. One is a big, powerful looking ruffian; the other slighter, but his brown limbs lithe and sinewy. The eyes of both are shining malevolently in the blaze.

"Corp di diavolo, this is a rare catch you have made, hermit bandit, whose name we do not know," chuckles the bigger of the two men; "this American whose pockets Saliceti declared were lined with gold, he whom we waited for and missed in the vale below."

"Ah, you are Rochini and Romano, I believe from your speech, gentlemen," says Barnes quietly.

"Aye, that we are. And who is this woman of the beautiful eyes? Hand thy captives over to us, hermit bandit. Divide your spoils with us and we will save you the trouble of cutting the man's throat," jeers the slighter miscreant.

"As for the woman, the fire tells me she is very lovely both as to limbs and face, and I have a better use for her," guffaws the bigger man.

And never was Marina more beautiful. She confronts the ruffians with undaunted men, and says commandingly: "Fellows, dare to lay your hands on me and the whole of Bocognano will hunt you down. The Bellocos will destroy you. I am Marina Paoli."

"Oh, she is merry with us, this girl who runs after foreign gentlemen. Now we will show her that Corsican kisses are as good as those of this American."

WOMEN'S KIDNEYS.

The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was nervous and lacked energy. But Doan's Kidney Pills gave me prompt relief and continued use cured me."

"No, my man, I have not. But how do you guess it?"

How I Cured Sweeney and Flatula.

"I want to tell you how I saved one of our horses that had a flatula. We had the horse doctor out and he said it was so bad that he did not think he could cure it, and did not come again. Then we tried Sloan's Liniment and it cured it up nicely."

"One day last spring I was plowing for a neighbor who had a horse with sweeney, and I told him about Sloan's Liniment and he had me get a bottle for him, and it cured his horse all right, and he goes off now like a colt."

"We had a horse that had sweeney awfully bad and we thought it was never going to be any good, but we used Sloan's Liniment and it cured it up nicely. I told another neighbor about it and he said it was the best Liniment he ever used."

"We are using Sloan's Sure Colic Cure and we think it is all right."

The Mean Man Again.

"Come on, son," said the old farmer, after the daybreak breakfast, "and we'll get out in the fields and start plowing."

"But I can't plow to-day," protested the youngster, "I have chills. Why, dad, I am shaking all over."

The old farmer grinned and took a fresh chew.

"All the better, my son. If you can't plow you can scatter the seed. All you have to do is to hold them in your hand and every time you shake it will send them in all directions. Better than a patent seeder, hehosh."

Willing to Oblige.

The poor but nifty young man was after the hand of the heiress.

"Young man," roared her irate father, "never darken my door again."

"All right, sir," replied the suitor, blandly, "I'll come around to-morrow and give it a coat of bright red paint. That will be much better than darkening it."

And the next instant the poor but nifty young man was being chased by a Scotch coachman, a French chauffeur and an English bulldog.

Brain and Nerves Restored by Grape-Nuts Food.

The number of persons whose ailments were such that no other food could be retained at all, is large and reports are on the increase.

"For 12 years I suffered from dyspepsia, finding no food that did not distress me," writes a Wis. lady. "I was reduced from 145 to 90 lbs., gradually growing weaker until I could leave my bed only a short while at a time, and became unable to speak aloud."

"Three years ago I was attracted by an article on Grape-Nuts and decided to try it."

"My stomach was so weak I could not take cream, but I used Grape-Nuts with milk and lime water. It helped me from the first, building up my system in a manner most astonishing to the friends who had thought my recovery impossible."

"Soon I was able to take Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast, and lunch at night, with an egg and Grape-Nuts for dinner."

"I am now able to eat fruit, meat and nearly all vegetables for dinner, but fondly continue Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper."

"At the time of beginning Grape-Nuts I could scarcely speak a sentence without changing words around or 'talking crooked' in some way, but my brain and nerves have become so strengthened that I no longer have that trouble." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Road "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

THE GREAT MAN'S OCCUPATION.

Nothing Very Serious in His Mind Just at That Moment.

The multi-millionaire was being shaved. As he lay back in his chair, looking upward, his grave face gave the impression that he was in deep study.

"Ah," whispered one of the barber shop loiterers, "I'll wager a dollar against a toothpick that he is thinking of railroad mergers."

"No," said another, "he is thinking about bear raids in Wall street."

"Bet he is pondering over the rebate system," echoed a third.

"I'll ask him."

Walking over to the chair, he said politely:

"Beg your pardon, sir, but to settle an argument, would you kindly tell us what mighty question you are studying over?"

The multi-millionaire turned his lathered face around and smiled. "I was just studying two flies doing handspins on the ceiling," he chuckled, and the trio of guessers looked so sheepish they failed to hear "Next" when it was called to them.

Previously to entering the railroad yards an able-bodied loafer picked up a small, glittering object from the sidewalk and, without examining it very closely, plunked it to his coat, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Three minutes later he collided with a slowly moving freight train, was hurled against a post and picked up insensate. The train dispatcher, notified by telephone, called up Patrick Doyle, the yardmaster's assistant, and said:

"You'd better search his pockets, Doyle. Find out who he is, notify his friends and report to me."

A few moments later the report came:

"There's not a line of writing on him," said Patrick, "but we've identified him by the badge on his coat. He is a Lady Macabed."

HOW TO TEST LINSEED OIL.

There is nothing that will make paint go wrong on the house more quickly than poor oil. It is as bad in its way as adulterations in the white lead. Petroleum oil cheapeners may be detected by placing a drop of the oil on a black painted surface. If one sees the characteristic iridescence or play of colors which kerosene exhibits, it is evidence of adulteration. Corn and fish oil can be detected by the smell.

Adulteration in white lead can be detected by the use of a blow-pipe, which National Lead Company will send with instructions free to anyone interested in paint. Address, National Lead Company, Woodbridge Building, New York.

Where He Drew the Line.

A famous English barrister was upon one occasion called upon to defend a cook tried for murder, being accused of having poisoned his master. The barrister, after a most able and brilliant defense of the culprit, secured an acquittal. The cook, anxious to show his gratitude, said: "Tell me, sir, whatever you like for me to reward you?"

"My good man do anything you can, but for God's sake, don't ever cook for me."

Naturally she turned to her husband for information.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Secretary of the Treasury has transmitted to Congress an estimate of $13,000 for the payment of messengers of the respective States for carrying to Washington the votes of the electors for President and vice President in the coming elections. Twenty-five cents a mile, one way, is the basis of payment.

It looks as though that active little person with the maximum capacity for pestering other governments, President Castro of Venezuela, were about to receive the much-needed spending which Senator Hale has so frankly declared was his due. Congress seems likely to give to President Roosevelt a free hand in the matter in which case he would "speak softly and—"

The recent tour of some of the largest cities of this country by the distinguished Japanese business men and women, has served to call attention in more ways than one, to the rapid progress Japan is making in competition along Occidental lines. It was significant, for instance, that each member of this party of sixty or more Japanese had his luggage marked in English letters.

Five-hundred thousand dollars will be appropriated at this session of Congress toward participation in the international exposition to be held at Tokyo in 1912, if the House of Representatives concurs in a report recently made by the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions. The Senate has acted already. The committee recommends, also, that a subsequent appropriation be made, not to exceed $500,000.

The lavish entertainments of rich American diplomats who have taken this means to establish social standing abroad, have been severely condemned by Congress. Mr. Longworth, President Roosevelt's son-in-law, declared that Emperor William had based his objections to Dr. David Jayne Hill as Ambassador to his court solely on account of that gentleman's luck of fortune and the fear that he would not be able to maintain an establishment equaling that of the present American diplomatic representative. Of course the aim of all the speakers has been to show that all these difficulties and embarrassments could be avoided if Congress would provide assistance for his diplomatic representatives and compel them, by law, to occupy these houses during their term of official service.

Let us hope that the matter of the site for the Grant monument has been finally settled by the letter to one of the members of the Grant Memorial Commission from General Frederick D. Grant, who says, among other things: "The location in the Botanic Garden, is the one most beautiful and most appropriate for the memorial of my dear father, and the placing of the monument on that site would tend more toward beautifying the City of Washington than locating the monument on any other site within the District of Columbia—I beg—that you will use your valuable influence to have father's monument placed in the Botanic Garden and to prevent any change being made in the site which has been decided upon, as I am most anxious about this matter."

To have perfect health we must have perfect digestion, and it is very important not to permit of any delay the moment the stomach feels out of order. Take something at once that you know will promptly and unflinchingly assist digestion. There is nothing better than Kodol for dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas and nervous headache. Kodol is a natural digestant, and will digest what you eat. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Superstitious Mexicans.

Superstition reigns supreme among the Mexicans. They never build a fire without making the sign of the cross in front of the oven. A child slow to talk is fed on boiled swallows, and colored glass beads, ground fine, are given for paralysis. The entire religion of the Mexican is full of suffering.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, is quickly changed to feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, rundown nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by J. H. Swan.

How Sawfish Uses Its Saw.

More energetic than any other sharks are the sawfish, whose snouts are prolonged into a broad blade of cartilage, which is horizontal when the fish is swimming in a normal position and has both its edges set with slightly curved teeth about an inch apart. The end of this formidable looking weapon is blunt and comparatively soft, so that it is quite incapable of the feats popularly attributed to it of piercing whales' bodies, ships' timbers, etc. It attacks other fish by a swift lateral thrust of the saw beneath them. Then it feeds upon the soft entrails, which are apparently the only food it can eat from the peculiar shape of its mouth. It has an enormous number of small teeth, sometimes as many as 50 rows in one individual, but they are evidently unfit for the rough duties required of their teeth by the garbage-eating members of the family.—Fish Lore.

How to Resist Colds.

Medical science is now nearly unanimous in its belief that colds are acquired by infection, just like measles or scarlet fever. They run through schools and factories and families. Folk who lead outdoor lives and dwell in well ventilated houses are least susceptible to them if they do not overindulge in alcohol and if they do not pile on so much clothing that the splendid armor of the human skin is pampered and weakened. Plenty of cold bathing and exercise, light underwear, free use of water inside and outside of the body and sleeping with wide-open windows will help them to resist the infection.

Power of Filthy Lucre.
Ready money works great cares.—
Danish Proverb.

Pain, anywhere, can be quickly stopped by one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Pain always means congestion—unnatural blood pressure. Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets simply coax congested blood away from pain centers. These Tablets—known by druggists as Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—simply equalize the blood circulation and then pain always departs in 20 minutes. 20 Tablets 25 cents. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. for free package. Sold by J. H. Swan.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"The wicked stand in slippery places," quoted that driving old dab, the Philosopher of Folly. "It's the good people who aren't wise to the game who fall when they strike such spots."

A Twenty Year Sentence.

"I have just completed a twenty year health sentence, imposed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me of bleeding piles just twenty years ago," writes U. S. Waelder, of Leffaysville, N. Y. Bucklen's Arnica Salve heals the worst sores, boils, burns, wounds and cuts in the shortest time. 25c. at J. H. Swan's drug store.

Where Law Doesn't Reach.

About 60 feet under the surface of the water, six miles off the coast of Florida, two Greek divers fought desperately for the possession of a big sponge. When one of them attempted to prosecute the other for injuries sustained in the fight he found that no court had jurisdiction over the bottom of the ocean.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve disease—nothing else. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Restorative—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood; due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unssteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation, poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

Sensational Suit Sale

One of the leading manufacturers of women's fine tailored suits sold us his sample line at 1/2 off. They are not the garments that drummers carry from town to town but the samples that are shown to the merchants who call at their New York salesroom. Therefore, they are in absolutely perfect condition and much better than the regular output, as samples are always given considerably more attention in the tailoring and selecting of materials.

The garments are made in the modified Prince Chap, butterfly, vestee and cutaway styles. The materials include fine chiffon-panama, ponaza cloth and serge, in plain colors and shadow stripes, also herring bone striped suitings. The workmanship is the highest character, as this concern employs only the most skilled tailors. Of course the prices are the most wonderful of all, when you take into consideration the character of the garments. The following quotations show the regular values and the present selling prices:

Women's Spring Millinery

There are two features about the Globe's millinery that should make buying here more satisfactory than at any place in the city. First is argument of style which is the principal consideration with every woman when selecting her headwear. In this respect we excel as our showing is extremely extensive and our facilities for making up special orders—creations according to your particular ideas—cannot be equalled. In connection with style satisfaction, is the fact that we price our hats less than others, therefore, making a double inducement to buy here.

STAND FOR DRIED FLOWERS.

Ornament Easily Made from a Tube of Cardboard.

A very effective stand for flowers that do not require water may be made from a tube of cardboard, the size of which must be regulated by the flowers it is intended to hold. The ends of the card must be sewn together, then the outside covered with a pretty piece of floral brocade. For the base a circle of card, standing out two inches wider each way, is covered with velvet or silk, ornamented with gold braid, or cord put on in waves. The tube must be fixed on the stand by sewing, or by a few drops of mastic. Everlasting flowers, cape gooseberries, horries and grasses, prettily arranged, may be then placed in the tube.

BUY STRIPES WITH DISCRETION.

Present Style Not Adapted for Women of Small Means.

One must buy stripes with discretion. This is only another way of saying that, attractive as the new pronouncedly striped fabrics are, there is nothing that looks so distinctly out of it when this vogue is really over, and they are, therefore, not a fashion for the woman whose limited finances compel her to turn and twist her gowns until every thread of them is worn out.

Last summer Paris was beginning to go wild over stripes, which means that by next season some other vogue will be enjoying that little city's approval. And though one doesn't do just as Paris does, one follows after sooner or later, with modifications. So that bizarre and decided striped effects are to be bought with discretion by the feminine of but one frock.

One of the best ways to make up a black and white striped cotton—smartest of all striped combinations—is in a jumper dress, with a jaunty little coat to match. Blue and white and brown and white will also make admirable little three-piece costumes of this nature.

Lace and Outline.

Most of the dresses at this moment are relieved with lace, some houses being entirely made of lace, while lace as yokes and trimmings, vests and the like, on elaborate bodices, is prominent, lace sleeves come often to the wrist.

The colors of the latest cloth dresses are so delicate and a new purple is perhaps one of the best worn shades of the year. The empire effect at the back is altogether charming. The empire coat is delightful, with its straight front faced with velvet worn over a broadened waistcoat, a pretty lace hunting stock and jabot finishing the throat. We are preferring light shades to white and cream this year, and lace accords well with these. Brunettes are favoring a new yellow tone, trimmed with ecrú lace; this in fine cloth is well worn for reception dresses.

Whatever the trimming or the cut the one aim of the best dressmakers is to keep the outline clear.

Jumper Frocks.

Jumper frocks of pongee and linen in either stripes or checks are delightfully trim and practical. One French model has large buttons of light brown pongee in one of the onyx shades embroidered lightly with black and white, while lines of the brown appear next the finger loops and on the collar and cuffs. Sharp contrasts are effective here and there, but as a rule they are used sparingly by the best dressmakers.

Ribbon Necklets.

A pretty novelty of the season is the narrow ribbon necklet, which is worn equally with high, transparent bodices and with décolleté effects. It consists of a stiff half-inch ribbon that passes round the neck and crosses in front through a slide of silver or gold, set with jewels, real or artificial. The ribbon ends are finished with caps of metal topped with metal tassels or other fancy "drops."—Harper's Bazar.

Defect in Human Face.

In three faces out of five the eyes are out of alignment.

Worth Remembering.

The man who asks to be allowed to explain is self-condemned.—Life.

Test of the Housekeeper.

Some one fond of generalizing has said that the conditions of the windows reveal the character of the housekeeper. A small quantity of water with alcohol in it is recommended as the best medium for window cleaning, with a newspaper rubbed afterward. A dry clean for a window may be made with liquid whiting spread over it, and there are numerous substances sold for the purpose that make it possible to keep the windows so clean that even an indifferent housekeeper may get the credit of being a better one by virtue of her clean windows.

Boysishness.

The small boy that doesn't try to make more noise than some other small boy is not in good health and should receive medical attention.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesus P. Morris, Skippers, of Va., had a close call in the spring of 1900. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels." Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Hal for the Cutaway Coat.

All hail to the cutaway coat! Nothing is newer than this style of wrap at present, nor is there any other in view likely to prove a formidable rival. The latest models are cut into deep points at the lower edge, sometimes in just four, at back, front and sides, respectively, while others are bordered with deep points. It will be the easiest matter to transform a tight-fitting half or three-quarter old-fashioned coat into a smart up-to-date wrap by simply cutting the lower edge into points and then inserting a smart-looking waistcoat and adding cuffs of some pretty contrasting material. The cuffs should be cut star-shaped on outer edge.

Women and Diplomacy.

Almost all the celebrated women have gained their fame by diplomatic means. The famous women of Jewish history were all subtle in their methods—Rebecca, Jael and Herodias, to name but a few of them. What born diplomatists, too, were Catherine of Siena, the great saint, and Catherine de Medici, the great sinner. The hat of them down the ages is unending. The royal road to fame as well as to peace would seem for women to be marked by the sign-posts of diplomacy.

STORM VICTIMS 350

DEATH LIST IN THE SOUTH HAS GROWN RAPIDLY.

BADLY INJURED ARE 1,200

Serious Wreckage Reported from Forty-Six Towns—Storm Moved in Three Currents—Relief for Sufferers.

New Orleans.—The totals of death, misery and ruin caused in four southern states by Friday's tornadoes have come to hand in approximately correct form. Briefly stated they are: Killed, about 350; injured, painfully or seriously, 1,200; homeless, several thousand. Towns reporting serious wreckage, 46; habitations and business houses practically completely ruined in these towns, about 2,500.

The above figures do not include the wreckage on plantations and farms; scores of which were struck and damaged.

The number of dead may never be known accurately for the reason that about 300 of them were negroes and they were buried in many communities without careful records being made of their numbers.

Course of the Tornadoes.

By following the wreckage of towns the general direction of the tornadoes can be traced closely. Apparently the storm struck in three separate currents, each describing the arc of a circle and traveling toward the northeast. The first of these struck through northern Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee before daylight Friday morning. The second appeared further south about seven o'clock in Louisiana and Mississippi. The third portion of the storm appeared Friday afternoon, further south than either of its predecessors. This was the storm which demolished Amite, La., and Purvis, Miss., the towns in which the wreckage was worst.

Why the fatalities were so unusually large is apparent from a glance at the photographs which have arrived here from many portions of the tornado belt. They all tell the same story. Whole blocks of what were formerly little residences and cabins lay spread over the ground in ruins. Under this mass of wreckage many hundred persons were buried, not one in a hundred escaping without some injury. The houses which were torn scattered about were mostly negro habitations.

Queer Experiences Related.

Along with the accounts of suffering have come many recitals of remarkable experiences of which the following is typical.

At Amite, La., when the tornado appeared there were seven persons at the dinner table of Hamilton Warner's home, including three children. One of the diners, Claude Bennett, saw the whirling cloud in time to shout warning, and rushed out doors, but the others remained in the dining room. The wind tore off two doors on opposite sides of the room and an astonishing procession of live and inanimate objects began to pass into the room through these doorways. First came a calf running before the wind. The animal jumped over the dining table and went out the opposite door. Afterward came a horse which followed through the exit taken by the calf. The three children sought refuge under the table but no one was injured.

Friday was a day of relief measures throughout the wrecked district. The ruined towns have been visited by thousands of spectators, many of whom went with a few dollars in their pockets to distribute among the needy. Sheds made from the wreckage have become the homes of hundreds. Small parties of men on horseback have gone through country districts taking inventories of the assistance needed and rendering aid where it was most necessary. At least a dozen funds have been started in as many cities and towns.

Another Tornado Reported.

Mobile, Ala., Apr. 27.—A special from Meridian, Miss., says that a disastrous tornado passed through a sparsely settled section of east Mississippi south of that city late Sunday. Meridian also was visited by a remarkable wind, rain and hail storm, much damage being done to crops and shrubbery. Reports from Camancheville say the main tornado passed seven miles below that place. Timber properties are reported almost devastated.

Gen. Linovitch Dead.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Lieut. Gen. Linovitch, aide-de-camp to Emperor Nicholas and commander of the First Manchurian army, died from pneumonia Thursday evening. He had been ill for a little over a week, and on several occasions serious symptoms of heart failure had manifested themselves. On Tuesday he had a serious attack of heart failure, from which, however, he recovered satisfactorily, but Wednesday it was found necessary to perform an operation, after which the patient gradually became weaker.

Mail Thieves Get $500,000.

London.—The London postal authorities have learned that two bags of mail from this city, containing $500,000, were stolen in New York the latter part of last month. One of the bags was destined for St. Louis and was shipped by the Madison, which arrived in New York on March 25; the other, destined for Brooklyn, was shipped by the steamer Philadelphia, which arrived at New York March 29. Both bags disappeared in transit between the steamers and the post-office.

LIQUOR LAW IS HELD VALID

ILLINOIS STATUTE UPHeld BY THE SUPREME COURT.

Local Option Measure Passed by the Legislature Last Year Is Declared Constitutional.

Springfield, Ill.—The supreme court Thursday handed down an opinion in the John McBride appeal case, holding that the local option law which was passed by the legislature last year is constitutional in every respect. The court is unanimous in its decision. Every point on which the law was attacked is gone into by the court, and no section of it but what is pronounced valid by the supreme court. The supreme court holds that the title is not defective; that the law does not interfere with interstate commerce; that it does not confiscate property, because the saloon keeper invests in furniture and fixtures knowing that he is liable to have his license revoked at any time under the old law, even, and that the new law does not create any new offenses.

The higher court also holds that the United States stamp is prima facie evidence that the man is engaged in the sale of liquor; that in case of elections without notice, for which it provides, such elections, if held, would be invalid, but that this does not invalidate the act itself. The supreme court holds that the legislature may create districts like a county or township, and that if the voters in the district shall decide that intoxicating liquors shall not be sold in the district then a village or city in this district created cannot permit the sale of liquor. The sale of liquor for medicinal purposes by druggists is never regarded as the saloon business, says the supreme court.

Regarding the returning of the saloon licenses creating a debt, the supreme court holds that when a man gets a saloon license and cannot use it, the municipality issuing the license is morally bound, though not before the passage of the law, legally bound, to pay it back to him.

One of the principal objections was that the law permits the legislature to delegate legislative powers to the people by permitting people in localities to adopt the law. The supreme court says that from the beginning to the end the supreme court of this state has held that to be legal.

DUC DE CHAULNES IS DEAD.

Husband of Theodora Shonts Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Paris.—In the presence of his bride of less than three months, Emmanuel Theodore Bernard Marie d'Albert de Laysnes d'Ally, ninth duke of Chaulnes and of Piquigny, and marquis of Dangean, died suddenly from heart failure at 11 o'clock Thursday night in his apartments in the Hotel Langham, in the Rue Baccara. The physicians summoned to attend the duke in his sudden seizure officially gave the cause of death as embolism of the heart.

The duke for years had suffered from a weak heart and for some time had been subject to fainting spells. Several times after his arrival here he consulted Dr. Henri Isevesco in an effort to obtain relief from his ailment. The duke and duchess, who was Miss Theodora Shonts, youngest daughter of Theodore P. Shonts of New York, were married in New York February 16 of this year. The wedding was a brilliant social function and the end of the brief honeymoon was sudden and tragic. Since the arrival of the couple here a month ago they had lived comparatively quietly at the Hotel Langham, taking an occasional automobile ride in the afternoon and in the evening dining with intimate friends or going to the theater.

LOOKING THROUGH THE BIG END.

TWENTY-EIGHT MEN LOST

RESULT OF SINKING OF BRITISH CRUISER GLADIATOR.

Warship Collided with American Liner St. Paul Off Isle of Wight—Blow to England's Navy.

London.—The total number of dead and missing of the Gladiator's crew as a result of the collision between the American liner St. Paul and the British cruiser, off the Isle of Wight Saturday, is 28. The admiralty late Sunday night issued a revised list of the names of the Gladiator victims, which includes an additional death in the hospital, bringing the total of deaths known up to five. Twenty-three men are missing according to the list, and six are suffering severe injuries. The secretary of the admiralty expresses fear that there are still eight others missing.

The opinion among shipping men and naval officers and officials appears to be unanimous that the accident was unavoidable, being one of the chances of the sea which all seamen must risk.

Coming so soon after the loss of the torpedo boat destroyer Tiger, which was sunk by the cruiser Berwick off the Isle of Wight on April 3 last, 36 men being drowned, the sinking of the Gladiator is a severe blow to the British navy.

Southampton.—Interesting details concerning the collision between the St. Paul and the cruiser Gladiator were told by various of the passengers on the liner. J. T. Mills of London, speaking of the delay in lowering boats from the St. Paul, said:

"In response to our offer of assistance, the captain of the Gladiator replied that it was not needed. That accounts for the fact that some time it seemed to me about 20 minutes, elapsed—after the collision before the St. Paul's boats were put in the water. At that time the cruiser was turning turtle. Some of the bluejackets on board of her cried 'Lower your boats.' 'The discipline on the Gladiator was magnificent. We could see every man at his post. There was no excitement on either ship. One would have thought that it was a moving picture instead of a real disaster.'"

FOUR MINERS DIE; 100 ESCAPE.

Explosion in Shaft at Ellsworth, Pa., Almost a Catastrophe.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Four men were killed, three seriously injured and 100 others had a narrow escape from death Thursday when an explosion occurred in mine No. 1 of the Ellsworth Collieries Company at Ellsworth, Pa., Washington county. The dead are foreigners. Their bodies were mangled and badly burned. It is supposed the accident resulted from an accumulation of gas in a new entry becoming ignited in some manner at present unknown.

Deputy Mine Inspector J. W. Louthitt arrived at Ellsworth late Thursday afternoon, where he is making a complete investigation. Unusual presence of mind is said to be responsible for about 100 miners escaping from the mine. Although the concussion threw them to the ground, all retained their composure and after great difficulty reached the surface.

Miners to Vote on Strike.

Springfield, Ill.—The coal miners and operators of Illinois have reached the parting of the ways, so far as the joint scale committee is concerned, in the settlement of the wage scale, and it is now up to the rank and file of the united workers of the state to determine by referendum whether a strike shall be ordered to compel the Illinois Coal Operators' association to pay the wages of shot miners employed in the mines. This action was determined upon by the miners Friday afternoon.

EX-BRITISH PREMIER DEAD.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Passes Away at London Home.

London.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, former British premier, died Wednesday at his official residence, 10 Downing street. The end was peaceful.

The death of Sir Henry after a lingering illness of more than two months did not come as a surprise. Although the doctors' bulletins had not declared his condition critical, the public had been expecting the announcement of his death at any hour during the past fortnight.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was born September 7, 1836. He was the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell of Strathmore, Forfarshire, some time lord provost of Glasgow. He assumed the additional name under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Henry Bannerman of Hutton Court, Kent, who bequeathed to him a large estate.

For nearly 40 years he sat for the same seat—the Stirling burghs—and his record of office goes back to 1871, when he was financial secretary to the war office, which post he held a second time from 1880 to 1882.

Sir Henry became premier in 1905, and the election of that year gave him the largest majority ever given a British premier.

LANDSLIDE Buries a Village.

De Salette, Ont., Is Crushed—At Least Thirty Persons Killed.

Buckingham, Ont.—Half the little French hamlet of Notre Dame De Salette, 16 miles from here on the Lievre river, lies buried under a sliding mountain and at least 30 of its small population are known to have perished.

The hamlet has no telephone or telegraph and neither is it on a railroad. Menger bits of news of the disaster came in by messenger from the physicians and other rescuers who were hurried there when the first calls for aid came at early morning.

The river Lievre winds at the foot of the hamlet and a mountain towers behind it. Spring rains for days past have been melting the snow and ice on the mountainside and streams have been coursing down to the river. At five o'clock in the morning, just as the little hamlet began to stir for early mass, part of the mountain started to slide toward the river. It tore a path of death and destruction.

Wife Murder and Suicide.

Big Bridge Is Dynamited.

Fall River, Mass.—The new Bristol county steel bridge, which is to connect this city and the town of Somerset across the Taunton river, was badly damaged by a mysterious explosion of dynamite. The bridge is being built at a cost of $750,000, and was to have been completed in two months. It is estimated that the loss to the contractors will reach $15,000. The contractors, who began the work on the bridge a year or more ago, are Lloyd, Cabot & Rollins of Boston. They employ nonunion workmen.

SPUR FOR CONGRESS

PRESIDENT AGAIN ASKS PASSAGE OF SEVERAL LAWS.

SENDS SPECIAL MESSAGE

Chief Executive Urges Injunction and National Incorporation Legislation—Rape Girls Who Marry Foreign Noblemen.

Washington.—Conditions in both the senate and the house were such that the special message of the president, further outlining his views as to legislation, which was sent to congress Monday received but scant attention. The message arrived late in the day and the house was so tied up under its new rules that it could not officially receive the message, while the senate was in the midst of the consideration of the naval appropriation bill under the ten-minute rule when the document reached that body. Unlike the house, the senate permitted the formal presentation of the message, but by the time the naval bill had been disposed of the hour was so late and the attendance so small that no attempt was made to read the document.

The message in part: In my message to the congress of March 25, 1908, I outlined certain measures which I believe the majority of our countrymen desire to have enacted into law at this time. These measures do not represent by any means all that I would like to see done if I thought it possible, but they do represent what I believe can now be done if an earnest effort toward this end is made.

Asks Injunction Legislation.

First, as to the power of injunction and of punishment for contempt. In contempt cases, save where immediate action is imperative, the trial should be before another judge. As regards injunctions, some such legislation as that I have previously recommended should be enacted. They are blind who fail to realize the extreme bitterness caused among large bodies of worthy citizens by the use that has been repeatedly made of the power of injunction in labor disputes. Those in whose judgment we have most right to trust are of the opinion that while much of the complaint against the use of the injunction is unwarranted, yet that it is unquestionably true that in a number of cases this power has been used to the grave injury of the rights of the citizen. I ask that it be so in some such way that I already pointed out in my previous messages, for the very reason that I do not wish to see an embittered effort made to destroy it. It is unwise, unbecomingly to refuse to provide against repetition of the abuses which have used the present arrest. In a democracy like ours it is idle to expect to thwart the determination of the great body of our citizens. It is often the highest of a court, a legislature, or a jury, to resist and defy a just popular passion; and most certainly, public servant, whatever may be consequences to himself, should do what he thinks wrong.

Declares Overuse of Injunction.

But in a question which is emphatically one of public policy, the policy which the public demands is one in the end to be adopted; and a persistent refusal to grant to a large portion of our people what is right is only too apt in the end to result in causing such irritation that when the right is obtained it is obtained in the course of a movement so ill considered and violent as to be accompanied by much that is wrong. The process of injunction in labor disputes, as well as where state laws are involved, should be used sparingly, and only when there is the clearest necessity for it; but it is one so necessary to the efficient performance of duty by the court on behalf of the nation that it is in the highest degree to be regretted that it should be liable to reckless use; for this reckless use tends to make honest men desire so to hamper its execution as to destroy its usefulness.

Would Strengthen Trust Law.

The strengthening of the anti-trust law is demanded upon both moral and economic grounds. Our purpose in strengthening it is to secure more effective control of the national government over the business use of the vast masses of individual, and especially of corporate, wealth, which at the present time monopolize most of the interstate business of the country; and to believe the control can best be achieved by preventing the growth of abuses, rather than merely by trying to destroy them when they have already grown. In the highest sense of the word this movement for thorough control of the business use of this great wealth is conservative. We are trying to steer a safe middle course, which alone can save us from a plutocratic class government on the one hand or a socialistic class government on the other, either of which would be fraught with disaster to our free institutions, state and national. We are trying to avoid alike the evils which would flow from government ownership of the public utilities by which interstate commerce is chiefly carried on, and the evils which flow from the riot and chaos of unrestricted individualism. There is grave danger to our free institutions in the corrupting influence exercised by great wealth suddenly concentrated in the hands of the few. We should in some manner try to remedy this danger, in spite of the sulka opposition of these few very powerful men, and with the full purpose to protect them in all their rights at the very time that we require them to deal rightfully with others.

Need National Incorporation.

No judicial tribunal has the knowledge or experience to determine in the first place whether a given combination is advisable or necessary in the interest of the public. Some body, whether a commission, or a bureau under the department of commerce and labor, should be given this power. My personal belief is that ultimately we shall have to adopt a national incorporation law, though I am well aware that this may be impossible at present. Over the actions of the executive body, in which the power is placed the courts possess merely a power of review analogous to that obtaining in connection with the work of the interstate commerce commission at present. To confer this power would not be a leap in the dark; it would merely be to carry still further the theory of effective governmental control of corporations which was responsible for the creation of the interstate commerce commission and for the enlargement of its powers, and for the creation of the bureau of corporations.

Labor Unions Exempted.

So far as labor is engaged in production only, its claims to be exempted from the anti-trust law are sound. This would substantially cover the right of laborers to combine, to strike peacefully, and to enter into trade agreements with the employers. But when labor undertakes in a wrongful manner to prevent the distribution and sale of the products of labor, as by certain forms of the boycott, it has left the field of production, and its action may plainly be in restraint of interstate trade, and must necessarily be subject to inquiry, exactly as in the case of any other combination for the same purpose, so as to determine whether such action is contrary to sound public policy. The heartiest encouragement should be given to the wage-workers to form labor unions and to enter into agreements with their employers; and their right to strike, so long as they act peacefully, must be preserved. But we should sanction neither a boycott nor a blacklist which would be illegal at common law.

The measures I advocate are in the interest both of decent corporations and of law-abiding labor unions. They are, moreover, preeminently in the interest of the public, for in my judgment the American people have definitely made up their minds that the days of the reign of the great law-defying and law-evading corporations are over, and that from this time on the mighty organizations of capital necessary for the transaction of business under modern conditions, while encouraged so long as they act honestly, and in the interest of the general public, are to be subjected to careful supervision and regulation of a kind so effective as to insure their acting in the interest of the people as a whole.

Hits Titled American Women.

Among the many kinds of evil, social, industrial and political, which it is our duty as a nation sternly to combat, there is none at the same time more base and more dangerous than the greed which treats the plain and simple rules of honesty with cynical contempt. If they interfere with making a profit, and as a nation we cannot be held guiltless if we condone such action. The man who preaches hatred of wealth honestly acquired, and inculcates envy and jealousy, and sinners of ill will toward those of his fellows who by thrift, energy and industry have become men of means, is a menace to the community. But his counterpart in evil is to be found in that particular kind of multimillionaire who is almost the least enviable, and is certainly one of the least admirable, of all our citizens; a man of whom it has been well said that his face has grown hard and cruel while his body has grown soft; whose son is a fool and his daughter a foreign princess; whose nominal pleasures are at best those of tasteless and extravagant luxury, and whose real delight, whose real life work, is the accumulation and use of power in its most sordid and least elevating form. In the chaos of an absolutely unrestricted commercial individualism under modern conditions, this is a type that becomes prominent as inevitably as the marauder baron became prominent in the physical chaos of the dark ages. We are striving for legislation to minimize the abuses which give this type its flourishing prominence.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Campbell-Bannerman Is Buried. London.—The funeral service of the Church of England was solemnized in Westminster Abbey at noon Monday over the body of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, late premier of Great Britain, who died April 22, in the presence of a large gathering representing the political life of England. After the service a short procession moved from the abbey to Euston station, where a special train took the coffin, some of Sir Henry's relatives and a few of his closest friends to Scotland.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM ALL OVER THE STATE.

CHILDRENS' HOME OPENS

Southern Illinois Counties Are Benefited by New Establishment at Du Quoin—Boys and Girls Are Given Instruction.

Du Quoin.—Southern Illinois has formally entered the business of "making over" children. The Du Quoin receiving home of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society was opened and it is here that this new work is being carried on. The new institution takes homeless boys and girls from the 28 southernmost counties and finds for them decent families in which they may be brought up. While they are at the receiving home the "making over" process is carried on, and experience has shown that but a single month's training can so improve the appearance, manners, habits and character of a child that any American household will be willing to receive it. The Du Quoin home is a model building, plans for which were exhibited at the St. Louis fair, receiving commendation from both American and European sociologists. It stands in the center of a five-acre tract on the east side of the city donated by B. D. Eaton of this place. The building is of brick in the colonial style of architecture and has beds for 24 children. Like the three other receiving stations of the society throughout the state, it is conducted on home lines, with none of the rules and regulations of the old-time orphan asylum.

FINDS A $2,500 PEARL.

Mussel Hunter at Beardstown Makes Biggest Find Yet Taken.

Beardstown.—The largest pearl yet taken from the Illinois river in this field of operation was found the other afternoon by one of Everett Brothers, mussel hunters who have been at work in this city since the season opened four weeks ago. The pearl weighs 52½ grains and is valued at from $2,500 to $2,700 by the owners. One of the brothers recently made a find which he sold for $720.

May Have Street Cars.

Taylorville.—An electric railroad for Taylorville is assured. The city council granted to the Taylorville Railway, Heat, Light and Power company a franchise to build an electric road three miles long in this city and to Hewittville and the coal shaft and then south to a piece of ground to be benefited for a city park.

Densen Talks to Home Folks.

Granite City.—Street parades, fireworks and enthusiasm welcomed Gov. Densen to Madison county, his birthplace. Assembly hall, where the governor spoke, was crowded to the doors, and it is estimated that over 3,000 persons were present. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Republican club.

Engineer Drowned in Flood.

Alton.—A fast freight train on the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis road dashed into a water-filled cut from which a storm flood had washed away the tracks 15 miles above here, and the engine and 11 cars turned over. Engineer John F. Walsh of Springfield was imprisoned in his cab and drowned.

Black Hand Panic in a School.

Chicago.—Twelve hundred pupils of the Edward Jenner public school fled panic-stricken to the streets when a report spread through the building that three members of the "Black Hand" society had placed a nitroglycerin bomb in the basement, which was timed to go off.

PASSES NAVAL BILL

SENATE FIRST VOTES AGAINST FOUR NEW BATTLESHIPS.

DEBATE HAS BEEN WARM

Allison Reveals Understanding Among Leaders That Two Big Warships Shall Be Authorized Each Year.

Washington.—By an overwhelming vote, President Roosevelt's four battleship program failed in the senate Monday, just as it did in the house. The amendment for four battleships was introduced by Senator Piles, and the fight for its adoption was led by Senator Beveridge.

Twenty-three votes were cast for the increased program, the number largely being made up of recently elected senators. Fifty senators voted to support the house and the recommendation of the senate naval committee in favor of building only two battleships.

The debate on the battleship amendment lasted three days, to the exclusion of all other matters. It was begun by Senator Beveridge with an eloquent appeal for the support of the president and a suggestion that the larger navy might be needed for war. Members of the committee upbraided the Indiana senator for this veiled hint of war with another country, and sought to make him admit that he meant Japan. At times the discussion came near becoming acrimonious, especially sharp exchanges occurring between Senators Aldrich and Beveridge.

It was developed by Senator Allison during the debate that there is a well-defined understanding among the senate leaders for the authorization of two battleships each year, until the American navy is regarded as sufficient to meet any demands that may be made upon it.

As finally passed, the bill carries appropriations aggregating $123,115,669, and provides for the construction of two battleships and two colliers, and the purchase of three additional colliers, the construction of submarines and other necessary craft, and increases the pay of officers and enlisted men, as well as increasing both the pay and strength of the marine corps.

WOMAN SLAIN WITH AX.

Brutal Murder in Brownville, N. Y.—

Two Arrests Made. Waterloona, N. Y.—What is apparently a most brutal murder was discovered late Monday in the manufacturing village of Brownville, four miles west of this city. The victim was Mrs. Sarah Brennan, wife of Patrick Brennan, a paper maker, and a highly respected resident of the little place.

The body of Mrs. Brennan, frightfully hacked with an ax and the skull crushed in, was found tightly packed in a large trunk at her home. Near the trunk a bloody ax was found. The police claim to have already solved the mystery of the woman's death through a confession which, it is alleged, they have obtained.

According to the police, the murder was done in a hotel formerly known as the Barton house, which is located near the Brennan home. The motive the officers allege was robbery. Pending further inquiry into the case, the police have taken into custody James Farmer and his wife, who are neighbors of the Brennans.

IMPORTANT RULING IN IOWA.

Attorney General Says Corporations Cannot Retail Liquor.

Des Moines, Ia.—In passing on the application of the Co-operative company of Sioux City for a state permit to issue stock, Attorney General Byers Monday ruled that such a permit should not be granted because the proposed corporation expected to engage in the retailing of intoxicating liquors. He declared that it is clear from the laws of the state the legislature never intended that a corporation should engage in the retail sale of intoxicating liquors, but that the laws contemplate that the business shall be confined to individuals solely, so that there may be individual, not corporate, responsibility under the law.

The decision is one of the most important in years and will precipitate much litigation.
